```java
import java.util.Scanner;
public class Homework {
        public static void main(String[] args) { Scanner sc=new Scanner(System.in);
                int n= sc.nextInt();
                int i=1;
                do {
                        int a =2*i;
                        System.out.println(a+" ");
                        i++;
                }while (i<=n);
                int sum=0;
                double b=1;
                do {
                        int d=(int)Math.pow(b, 2.0);
                        sum=sum+d;
                        b++;
                }while(b<=n);
                System.out.println("Suma="+sum);
                int e=1;
                do {
                        int j=1;
                        do {
                                System.out.printf("%5d",j);
                                j++;
                        }while(j<=e);
                        System.out.println();
                        e++;
                }while(e<=5);
                sc.close();
        }

}
```